

Fashions For Fall

THE fashions for Fall are distinctive in type and very attractive. English models, pronounced and conservative, prevail. Soft rolling effects in lapels are in vogue with stylish men. Sombre blacks are not in evidence, but Blues, Greens, Browns and Grays in unfinished effects will be generously worn.

HERO OF JAPANESE WAR ENDS LIFE
AS FINAL TRIBUTE TO EMPEROR

Gen. Nogi, Who Received the Surrender of Russian Commander, Plunges a Sword Into His Throat.

Tokyo, Jap., Sep. 14.—Gen. Count Mar-aresuke Nogi, supreme military councilor of the empire and his wife, the countess Nogi, who committed suicide following the funeral services of the emperor, did so in accordance with an ancient Japanese custom, as a final tribute to their departed emperor and friend, Mutsuhito.

The death by their own hands of the famous general and his wife was as dramatic as it was sad. The general cut his throat with a short sword and the countess committed hari-kari.

Following the Samurai custom, the couple had carefully prepared their plans for killing themselves and timed them so that they would be coincident with the departure forever from Tokyo of the dead emperor.

Gen. Nogi and the countess had attended the funeral services of Mutsuhito at the palace, and it was expected they would proceed to Aoyama with the cortege. Instead, however, at the conclusion of the ceremony at the palace they withdrew to their modest home in Akasaka, a suburb of Tokyo, and there began their final preparations for death.

First, the general wrote a letter to his new emperor, Yoshihito, which later was found beside his body. Then he draped in mourning a portrait of the late emperor and afterward he and his wife dressed themselves in full Japanese costume and drank a farewell cup of sake, from cups which had been presented to them by Mutsuhito.

Lying upon the floor were the hero of Port Arthur and his wife. Both still breathing, but their spasmodic gasps showed plainly that death was near. The student hurried for aid, but when he returned, both the general and the countess were dead.

The tragedy created a profound sensation and expressions of sorrow were heard on every hand. Especially grief-stricken was prince Arthur, of Connaught, the British special envoy to the funeral of Mutsuhito. Prince Arthur was to have gone with Gen. Nogi to the former capital of the Shogunate, Kamakura.

Those who knew Gen. Nogi well declared that his calmness in killing himself was the kind of stoicism he always had displayed, no matter what crisis faced him. They instanced the famous charge of the Japanese up a 205 meter hill during the Russo-Japanese war, when, as commander of the Japanese third army, Gen. Nogi saw the Russians mow down his forces in hundreds, among them two of his own sons, and yet quietly and fearlessly continued the battle, taking the hill and eventually being handed the surrender of Lieut. Gen. Stoessel at Port Arthur.

SNAPSHOTS TAKEN FROM REAL LIFE

I'm so glad to see you, dear. I've just received my new Hoosier. See when I pull out this table it looks so I can actually sit down at my work.

Now look at this sugar bin. When I take out one spoonful another flows down—always ready. See, just like this. Yes, the scoop went with the cabinet.

Here is the dish cupboard. You see, even while sitting I can reach up to the highest shelf. It is a whole lot different than walking back and forth for everything, isn't it?

You have no idea the things I can store away in here. Sometimes I have as many as forty packages on the lower shelf alone. It saves miles of steps.

Now see! Five seconds after my work is done, everything is shut in behind dust proof doors. My whole kitchen outfit it put away out of sight. My kitchen looks so much neater and everything is so much more easily kept clean. The cabinet closed takes less room than a kitchen table. Yes, it is made of oak and is guaranteed not to warp. Oh, they last a lifetime.
